Dear Parents,

Our Kindergarten students are just starting to bring home their readers. Often parents are a little worried about how they can help their child use the reader at home and what to expect from their child as they learn to read.

On Monday 9 March, I will be hosting an information session for parents who would like to help their child with home reading. During this time I will be talking about our levelling system for the readers, techniques to encourage children to attempt difficult words and beginning comprehension skills.

The session will be held in the KB room from 2.30pm.

This session is aimed mainly at Kindergarten parents, but anyone who is interested is welcome to attend.
